

ideas & ideologies (i&i) international e journal an interdisciplinary journal of humanities and social sciences
Volume-2: Issue- 8

Krishanthi Anandawansa,
Dept. of Languages, Faculty of Management, Social Sciences and Humanities, Kotelawala Defence University, Ratmalana.

Green life

To be so green and lush year round
Leaves rustling, swaying in rebound
To the wind, shelter birds who prune for food
Little insects dwell of different brood

Blessed will I be to be full of life
In early morn dew before the sun rise
Sweet melodies of fellow birds that mate
Rejuvenation for my human mate

To see the heaven's water simply trickle down
From pointed leaves of my body gown
Heavens they say we must intersperse
Bathe and then quench mother Earth

What a treasure it is to be so green
One with nature, no human spleen
Man takes so for granted before his very eyes
The lush green friends around- green life

Preserver of the air is destroyed when he Cuts us down reminiscently
Human kind, its flesh simply forgets
That when it sleeps we give life's breath

If one traces back prehistorically
Green life came first not the chimpanzee
Destruction awaits man miserably
The day he destroys the greenery

Ego-bound capitalists do you see
Some things are given money free
My shade is rest through mid-day sun
My boughs are bent for a swing's fun

In silence we stand on road sides forgotten
But if we talk and man would listen
Many a crime we have seen committed
Bombings, shootings, killings, abductions

Being green it is a tragedy
For we stand mute incapably
Unvoiced we see such injustice
Blood on man's hands- the common practice

If man's such violent in green life
Do we need to speak what happens inside
Of buildings, concrete, where rulers sit
Or houses peopled in different knits?

Our birth is green we will die so
But man born innocent, he will grow
In greed, no values, mind aglow
In darkness dwell and will die so